MEETING DATES SET FOR CHARTER REVIEW COMMITTEE

WELD COUNTY, CO — Last night, the 2018 Ad Hoc Charter Review Committee confirmed both their general meeting dates and the community/public input meeting dates. While the public is invited to attend any of the meetings, the general meetings are for committee discussion and the community meetings are geared toward gathering public comments regarding possible amendments to the Weld County Home Rule Charter.

All meetings will be held on Wednesday evenings from March through May. Additional meetings may be scheduled later in the review process depending on public interest. The goal of the committee is to review the home rule charter to make sure it is up to date and meets state constitution and statutory requirements. The public's participation in this review is highly valued as the charter serves as the foundation for Weld County government.

The committee, which consists of nine Weld County residents, was officially formed on March 5 following a public application and selection process. Committee members include Al Dominguez (Windsor), Jackie Johnson (Greeley), Dave Kisker (Johnstown), Mark Lawley (Eaton), Raymond Patch (Greeley), Justus Pettit (Pierce), Garrett Varra (Longmont), James Welch (LaSalle) and Sam Gluck (LaSalle). During their initial meeting, held March 14, the committee elected Jackie Johnson to serve as the committee chair and Al Dominguez to serve as the committee vice-chair.

Committee information, including meeting agendas and minutes, can be found at <https://tinyurl.com/2018CRC>. If you would like to contact the committee via email, please email 2018crc@weldgov.com (the email will be forwarded directly to all of the committee members and committee staff).
