CORONER'S OFFICE AND DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE SERVICES TO MOVE TO CENTENNIAL CENTER

WELD COUNTY, CO –The Weld County Coroner's Office and the Department of Justice Services will be relocated to the third floor of the Centennial Building later this month. The move for both offices will begin on Friday, February 22, 2013, and be completed over the weekend. Both offices will reopen to the public, albeit with some limited services, on Monday, February 25.

The move will provide both entities with improved space.

The move should occur with minimal interruption to services. Since the Department of Justice Services supervises offenders, staff will be informing them of the move ahead of time and adjusting appointments accordingly. The Coroner Office's on-call investigator will be available by cell phone and will also be reachable through the dispatch center.

The move will not affect the coroner's ability to respond to death calls, and there should be no delay to funeral arrangements.

Phone numbers for both offices will remain same.

Currently, there are no future plans for either office's existing space.

As of February 25, 2013, physical addresses for the offices will be:
