WELD COUNTY BOARDS AND COMMISSIONS VOLUNTEERS RECOGNIZED

WELD COUNTY, CO – The Weld County Board of Commissioners recognized eleven volunteers for their service on various county boards and commissions on Monday during the board meeting.

Doug Printz and Barbara Murphy were recognized for their eight years of service to the Board of Public Health; Mark Lawley for his eight years of service to the Planning Commission and Richard Spittler and Robert Coon for their three years and six years of service to the Building Trades Advisory Board. Erich Ehrlich was recognized for his six years of service to the Board of Adjustment.

"Erich has been one of those unique citizens who has served on multiple boards and commissions," said Commissioner Sean Conway. "I want to thank him for all of his years of service in Weld County. He certainly gives a lot."

Patricia Colleen Flack was recognized for her six years of service to the Community Corrections Board, a responsibility Commissioner Conway said Flack took very seriously, thanking her for her generous time and service.

John Cordova and Colleen Anthony were recognized for their six years of service to the Child Protection Citizen Review Panel; a panel Commissioner Conway said requires a serious time commitment.

Louise Giuliano was recognized for her two years of service to the Board of Trustees for NCMC, and William Hughes for his eight years of service on the Board of Retirement.

"Our current and future retirees are very thankful to Bill for his leadership on this board," said Commissioner William Garcia.

"We want to thank all of these residents for their time commitment and energy put in to making Weld County a great place to live and work," said Commissioner Chair Douglas Rademacher.

"It's involved individuals like these that help county government to operate in the best interest of its residents," added Commissioner Barbara Kirkmeyer.
