WELD COUNTY FAIR KICKS OFF WITH MORE THAN 1,000 EXHIBITORS

WELD COUNTY, CO – The Weld County Fair kicked off yesterday with more than 1,000 exhibitors registered in all categories, including 4-H and FFA county projects, 4-H and FFA livestock, 4-H family consumer science, 4-H general and natural resources, the better living division, kids' events, the premier exhibitor category and the youth groups department.

Attendees will find a variety of exhibits outside of livestock within the above mentioned categories, including robotics, woodworking, model rocketry, cake decorating and much more.

"The Weld County Fair is an excellent representation of many of the talented residents we have here," said Commissioner Chairman Douglas Rademacher. "I hope everyone takes the opportunity to visit the fair and see what Weld County has to offer."

"There really is something for everybody at the Weld County Fair," said Weld County 4-H Extension Director Keith Maxey. "We've had a really great turnout for exhibits this year and hope to see the public out here to check them out."
