Dodge started in the Public Safety Communications Department before transferring to the Clerk to the Board's office. While working for the Clerk to the Board, Dodge became very interested with right-of-ways and land uses so it was a natural switch for her to move to the Planning Department.

"Lin is an exemplary employee," said Director of Planning Services Tom Parko. "She always went above and beyond to help staff with any questions or projects, and she always had the customer's best interest in mind when helping them with the permitting process."

As a Building Technician, Dodge was responsible for all the zoning, property research and addressing for all building permits as well as addresses for all of Weld County. Dodge was also involved in many projects and developed numerous trainings and procedures for the Planning Department.

"I am always impressed with Lin's positive attitude and customer service skills," said Commissioner Julie Cozad, coordinator for the Planning Department. "The Board appreciates everything Lin has done for the county."

"Thank you for a job well done," said Commissioner Pro-Tem Sean Conway. "Congratulations, and enjoy retirement."

Dodge plans to spend her retirement with her friends and growing her jewelry business.
